

ADELAIDE, SOUTH AUSTRALIA

DELICIOUS DOWN UNDER

Discover the allure of Adelaide, and the state of South Australia, and prepare to be wowed by bold flavors, world-class wines, and breathtaking natural adventures.

GENUINELY AUSTRALIAN

From the ancient Outback and untouched coast to the charming capital city of Adelaide, the state of South Australia draws curious-minded travelers with an inviting sense of authenticity. This is the real, unscripted Australia—the place to have up-close-and-personal adventures and pursue your passions unabashedly. It's also where you can discover true Australian “WOW” (Wine, Outback, and Wildlife experiences) all within striking distance of Adelaide.

SWIRL, SIP, ENJOY

Sublime wine is one of the biggest draws in South Australia, so get ready for some serious tasting and vineyard touring. With over 70 percent of premium

Australian wine produced in this state, South Australians really know their grapes. From Adelaide, you can easily explore world-renowned regions including the Barossa, McLaren Vale, Adelaide Hills, and the Clare Valley.

Along with international brands like Penfolds and Jacob's Creek, you'll also have the thrill of making your own discoveries among the hundreds of local wineries (including more than 200 wine cellars within a two-hour drive of Adelaide).

DON'T MISS: The new d'Arenberg Cube in McLaren Vale. This striking piece of architecture, the brainchild of Chester Osborn, the “Willy Wonka of Wine,” invites you inside for utterly unique wine experiences, including a virtual fermenter and a 360-degree video room.

INVENTIVE RESTAURANTS

Where there is great wine, there is also great food, and South Australia has both in spades. Adelaide itself has many hot spots including Orana, serving star chef Jock Zonfrillo's Aboriginal-inspired cuisine, and the hip, African-influenced Africola, led by head chef Duncan Welgemoed. Beyond the city, experience locally sourced food at places like Hentley Farm in the Barossa, where head chef Lachlan Colwill cooks with produce culled from the farm and from local foraging spots, and the Prairie Hotel's Flinders Feral Food, which serves adventurous outback fare like kangaroo mettwurst and emu pâté.

DON'T MISS: The Hunt and Gather Seafood Safari with Goin' Off Safaris. Together with your guide, you'll snorkel for abalone, collect cockles, and fish from shore before cooking up dinner on the spot.

THE OUTBACK & BEYOND

Although the Outback spans the country, this incredible red-dirt wonderland is particularly accessible from Adelaide. Just a one-hour flight (or a 4.5-hour drive) will put you in the vicinity of the real-deal Outback of the Flinders Ranges, which abound with wildlife, Aboriginal history, and ancient rock formations including the breathtaking Wilpena Pound. Or, get a taste of mining life by venturing north to Coober Pedy, the world's largest opal mining site, where half the town dwells underground due to the extreme heat. If wildlife is your game, head to Kangaroo Island, a “zoo without fences” that's home to kangaroos, koalas, sea lions, and birds galore—all just a 20-minute flight from Adelaide.

DON'T MISS: The Eyre Peninsula and Port Lincoln. Amid this aquatic playground, you can swim with seals or (if you're brave) cage dive with great white sharks. Seafood lovers: Tour an oyster farm (complete with hip-waders) in Coffin Bay.
